How to identify fake Kansas-Nebraska material. The overprinted issues were derived from the 1926-1927 Definitive Issues (Scott numbers 632-642) - which will offer many distinctive color variants in these series - so color is not a factor

1) Perforations — The perforation for the Scott 632-642 sheets is 10.5 by 11 and all examples will be perforated on all four sides.

2) Gum — Because the sheets of stamps had to be wet when printed to improve adhesion of the ink, the sheets were gummed only after the overprinting. The gum on genuine examples will not reflect the presence of the overprint, whereas fakes will have disturbed gum, because the "typing" (or however the fake overprint was applied) will have indented the letters and created an "embossed" feature in the gum in the shape of the fake overprint letters.

3) Overprint Spacing — While the vertical spacing between repetitions of the overprints may vary (22 mm is normal), there should be no variation side to side, in letter spacing, or overprint width from one stamp to another in unbroken blocks. Kans. overprints should be 9.2 mm wide on average, Nebr. overprints 9.0 mm - it was a bit difficult of lining up the "typewriter" correctly for more than one attached stamp hence most forgeries are found on individual stamps - usually "used" in the poorest form.

4) "Breakers" — These stamps were printed on the rotary press, which imparted to them a tendency to curl badly in humid weather. The BEP would mitigate this by running the sheets one more times through a high pressure "printing" process to apply horizontal bands across the sheets in an effort to reduce this curling. On genuine Scott 632-634 sheets, you'll find only one of these thick "breakers" per stamp (just possibly there will be one on the perforations at the top and another just straddling the perforations at the bottom). If you have more than one breaker running through the central part of a stamp, you are dealing with a forgery made from a stamp not printed during this period. In addition, the gum was laid on the rear of genuine sheets in a pattern of narrow ridges - 14 vertical gum "stripes" per stamp/vertical or "portrait" orientation. There will be examples where the gum runs nearly together, but the pattern is still distinctive.
